

CHÂTEAU CAZEBONNE

Qui est Yin, qui est Yang ? 2022

HIS STORY

On September 23rd, we brought in our last Sauvignons, but also a plot of Cabernet Franc that couldn't wait. White grapes are harvested on the same day as red grapes, which is not so common here in Bordeaux, because when the reds start, the whites are often finished. We vinified them together in the same tank.

It's not allowed in Bordeaux appellations to vinify red and white together, so naturally we bottled it under the Vin de France label.

TASTING NOTES

The cuvée is astonishingly fruity and fresh. A surprising wine, reminiscent of certain Gamays, the structured finish cannot deny its Bordeaux origins.

A WORD FROM JEAN-BAPTISTE

Blouge is back in fashion. It's a very common practice in the history of winegrowing to harvest red and white grapes together. In many cases, this was because the plots were planted with numerous grape varieties and it was more convenient to harvest them all at the same time.

This cuvée, a tribute to Serge Gainsbourg (Qui est In, qui est out...), is a pleasure wine that can be drunk chilled. A perfect summer wine!
